CRITIFCTIONS & THEORETICAL REFLECTIONS BY LANCE OLSEN

Distributed by Ingram

Publication Date: February 2014

Paperback: 142 pages • 5x8 • $13.95 • ISBN 978-0-9892391-3-4

Kindle: $7.95

Anti-Oedipus Press is proud to announce the release of [[there.]], a work of creative nonfiction by metamodern author and professor Lance Olsen.

Written in 2013 during Olsen's five-month stay at the American Academy in Berlin, [[there.]] is part critifictional meditation and part trash diary exploring what happens at the confluence of curiosity, travel, and innovative writing practices. A collage of observations, facts, quotations, recollections, and theoretical reflections, it touches on a wide range of authors, genres, and places, from Beckett and Ben Marcus to David Bowie and Wayne Koestenbaum, film and architecture to avant-garde music and hypermedia, the Venezuelan jungle and Bhutanese mountains to New Jersey mall culture and the restlessness known as Berlin. [[there.]] is an always-already bracketed performance about how, by inhabiting unstable spaces, we continually unlearn and therefore relearn what thought, experience, and imagination feel like.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Lance Olsen is author of more than 20 books of and about innovative writing, including the novels Theories of Forgetting, Calendar of Regrets, and Nietzsche's Kisses. His short stories, essays, poems, and reviews have appeared in hundreds of journals and anthologies, such as Conjunctions, Black Warrior Review, Fiction International, Village Voice, BOMB, McSweeney's, and Best American Non-Required Reading. He serves as chair of FC2's Board of Directors and teaches experimental narrative theory and practice at the University of Utah. Visit him online at www.lanceolsen.com.

ABOUT THE PUBLISHER

Anti-Oedipus Press is a publisher of literary "schiz-flows" that aspire to chart new boundaries in narrative and theory. Taking their cue from the poststructuralist writings of Deleuze and Guattari, A-OP publishes authors who write to the Nth power, making rhizomes instead of roots and sculpting innovative bodies without organs in the form of fiction, nonfiction, literary criticism, cultural studies and pop philosophy.

SCHIZE: "Only the idea can inject the venom." —Deleuze & Guattari, Anti-Oedipus
